Tracey Walker is the founding Partner of the Firm's Atlanta office where she has served as the Partner-in-Charge for the first three years of its existence. She is a member of the Litigation Department and concentrates her practice in the area of Litigation, with emphasis in Commercial, Construction Tort and General Commercial Liability.

Ms. Walker has successfully tried cases in state and federal court, and in arbitration on matters ranging from simple disputes to large complex multi-million dollar claims involving torts, negligence, contract disputes and employment matters, among others. Her practice is national in scope spanning from Pennsylvania to California and from Illinois to Puerto Rico.

Ms. Walker has comprehensive experience in drafting and negotiating complex commercial and construction contracts for various types of commercial and industrial projects. She routinely works on the procurement side of government contracting, assisting clients in the preparation of invitations to public bid, requests for proposals and request for qualifications, and counseling clients on procurement issues in response to public bids.

She also boasts an extensive background in all aspects of the defense of general casualty claims involving property damage and loss, personal injury, product liability, automobile, premises and commercial liability, wrongful death, and intentional torts and defamation.
